Mr. W. J. Tarbox returned from Hale Center, Texas, Tuesday morning where he has been looking after his crops. Mr. Tarbox reports things booming in that country and recent rains have put the wheat in good shape for the winter. Mr. W. P. Anderson, who has been in Hale Center since last spring will not return for at least a month.

Mr. John Stewart came up from Cincinnati Monday to be here election day.

Mr. Frank Crosswell left Tuesday for Hale Center, Texas, to be gone about a month.

Mr. Ralph Kennon, of the O. S. U. Columbus, was home for the election.

A very delightful time was spent at the home of Herman McFarland when he entertained his friends at a masquerade party. They enjoyed the evening playing games and during the evening refreshments appropriate to the season were served.

Mr. A. Z. Smith is in receipt of a telegram stating that his brother-in-law, Daniel Herlihy, brother of Mrs. Smith, has been elected State Senator from the 8th ward in Chicago. His majority was 1700 over his Republican opponent.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found the advertisement of the O. K. store in Xenia at 17-19 W. Main Street. The store was opened a few weeks ago with new stocks in clothing, boots, shoes and furnishings. The store is one of the finest in the state and the stock one of the most complete. You should call when you are in Xenia.

Mr. Alva St. John is the owner of a new Reo touring car.

Dr. C. M. Wilcox and wife, of New Paris, returned home Sabbath evening after a visit with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. A. R. Richards and wife.

Mr. Wm. Conley and wife and Mr. Enos Hill and wife left today for Pittsburg to be gone until Monday. While in that city they will visit their sons, Robert Conley and Ralph Hill, students at Carnegie Technical Institute.

Mr. Daniel Marshall, wife and daughter, of Springfield, are guests of Mr. Charles Marshall and wife.

Mrs. T. J. Fitch and children have gone to Beaumont, Texas, their future home, where Mr. Fitch has been located for some time. Mrs. Fitch was the recipient of a handsome pair of handsomely pillow cases and sheet, monogrammed, as a remembrance from the members of the Kadantra Club, of which she is justly grateful.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Smith entertained at a Halloween party last Friday night.

A number of the college students were entertained at the home of Miss Ina Faris Tuesday evening.

The ladies of the college were given a Halloween reception at the gym. at a masquerade party by the young men and men professors of the faculty. The gym had been decorated with corn fodder, autumn leaves and pumpkins. After a number of contests a chicken supper was served.

The public schools are closed today in order that the teachers may attend the Central Ohio Teachers' Meeting at Columbus.

FIVE MILES OF PARADE AT XENIA, SATURDAY.

The judges of the floats for prizes were: George D. Black, Miss Wilgus, Miss Corbett, Prof. Crawford and Prof. Whitaker. The awards were as follows:

Auto decoration: First, Homer Spahr; second, New Jasper Sunday school.

Floats: First, W. C. T. U., second, The Devil's Gin-Mill.

Best horse drawn vehicle other than float: First, J. D. Kyle; second, Y. W. C. A. of Xenia.

Best display of church, lodge, college, or society: First, Second United Presbyterian church, of Xenia; second, Willerforce college.

The figures that were gathered are interesting. The count at Trinity church showed 150 autos, 70 floats, 120 horse drawn vehicles, 430 horses and 3,586 people after two or three hundred had fallen out of the ranks.

Of course, there were thousands of dry people in Xenia that day who did not get into the parade. It took the procession two hours and five minutes to pass a given point.

DAMES AND DAUGHTERS.

Mrs. Yllesgen of the Federation of Women's Clubs in Chicago declares the foot is just as expressive as the hand.

Miss Cannon of London classified 150,000 stars according to their spectral and in recognition of this unparalleled work the Royal Astronomical society of Great Britain has made her an honorary member.

Miss Mabel Green, London's most remarkable blind girl, possesses extraordinary memory. She recently reported a pastor's sermon of 5,000 words without notes, and he declared that it was without a single omission or mistake.

The Countess of Warwick, who recently started in business as a garden designer, will undertake the laying out of gardens. The countess, who is an enthusiastic amateur gardener, established a training college for women gardeners at Studley some time ago.

At the time of the Franco-Prussian war, in 1870, Sarah Bernhardt left the stage and became a hospital nurse, where she did excellent work among the wounded. After this she entered the Comedie francaise, where, in the character of Desdemona in "Othello," she was first pronounced great by Paris.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of system thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Paint is liquid money. You spread it over your house and then sun, wind, rain and dust beat upon it in the effort to wear it out and get at the wood. Bye and bye you have to do it all over again—but less often with than with others. When you think of the cost of paint and painting, remember that one-third is paint and two-thirds labor.

It costs more to put on a poor paint than a good one. Use the paint that lasts longest.

At the Family Hotel.

The wide diversity of nursery methods in this country is nowhere more noticeable than at the family hotel. Here one sees children, who, if they were not born with the idea that courteous attention should be accorded their elders, have had this truth instilled into them so early that it seems a part of them.

In a certain family hotel one table exhibits two girls in the rosy flush of their teens, accompanied by a mother to whom they pay delightful little attentions. They remain standing until she is seated, or if her entrance to the dining room has been delayed, they always rise as she draws near.

Equally pleasant to watch is the devotion of a very fat, chubby, ten-year-old son to his mother. The glorious appetite of youth drives him to the table the minute the meal is served, but the entrance of his mother is the signal for her son's graceful diving out of her chair, a service performed with the manner of a Chesterfield.

It is also refreshing to watch a third table, at which a father and son—the latter probably in his thirties, though he looks like a younger brother—take their meals. The younger man always stands until his father is seated and never fails to rise should the father be the last to enter the room.

When the meal is over he may be observed to step aside to allow the older man to precede him. He has done this from a mere child, and it has now become a part of his being.

Too Much Solitude.

It is not easy to be a good hostess especially a good tea party hostess. There are many little things to remember.

The hostess wishes guests to enjoy the good things, but solitude can be overcome.

The writer once went to a tea where the hostess overdid it badly. She must have thought that her guests had had nothing to eat for days by the way she pressed sandwiches and buns, tea, and more cups of tea, on them.

"No, thank you," and "Really, thanks, I have had a huge tea," and the like assurances were useless. The kind hostess continued offering more.

There was a vast difference between "Won't you have a little more?" and "Do try one of these hot buns!" to Mrs. De Fussy's continued badgering to consume more and more.

After all, they were all sensible men and women, with average intelligence and brains—not a party of children at a school treat.

Guest Room Supplies.

Nothing is more disconcerting to guests than a guest room that is not well furnished. Of course every one is supposed to carry his own toilet articles with him, excepting the chance or unexpected visitor who comes unprepared.

But, equally, of course, the hostess should not take individual toilet articles for granted, and she should if possible furnish her pretty guest room dressing table with an adequate supply. Bone, celluloid or ivory. In white, the best material for these articles, for any of these substances can be readily cleaned.

A simple light for the guest room is an electric bulb supported by a glass candlestick, fourteen inches high and shaded by a fringe trimmed, ecrusse shade.

Indian Lawn Party.

Should the hostess who is giving it garden party wish to emulate the noble red man the lawn may be tempo- rarily transformed into a miniature Indian encampment. A near Indian to peep, looking enough like the real thing to deceive any ordinary being, can be purchased ready to set up, and in this—or from it—the refreshments may be served.

Navajo blankets, Indian baskets and pottery, porcupine quills, tomahawks of paper mache, pieces of wampum and a pipe of peace are among the characteristic decorations for an Indian lawn party, while souvenirs of birch bark will prove acceptable to the guests.

National Entertainments.

The fashionable hostess in her endless search for a novel way in which to entertain her guests has paused a moment to enjoy what she chooses to call "national" functions.

These include the Russian tea, the Japanese and Chinese breakfasts, Italian, French, German and Hungarian dinners, Holland and Spanish lunches and last, but not least, the Ro- manian late supper.

Cool Looking Decoration.

A clear glass bowl such as is used for goldfish, filled with carbonated water, will, if nasturtiums and leaves are placed in it, soon become a mass of frostlike molature. The escaping gas in the water creeps over each leaf and flower, making the whole seem covered with dew. For luncheon on a hot day it is the most refreshing bit of coolness imaginable.

New Place Cards.

Original and new are place cards being tiny flat baskets or bouquets of paper flowers at one corner. The flowers are in their natural colors, and the bouquets have lace edging around them.

PATENTS

For the purpose of obtaining a patent on an invention, the inventor must first file a written description of the invention with the United States Patent Office. DARK OF THE MOON.

An Effect That Is Produced by the Light From the Earth.

Many people have wondered why the part of the moon that receives no sunlight is often visible to us, the term being the "old moon in the young moon's arms." The dark part is easily seen as a copper colored globe reposing in the bright crescent. This that we see is nothing more or less than the earth shine on the moon. We appear the same way to the moon when we are in that phase, and our dark part is where the moonshine appears and the bright part of the sunshine.

The reason the copper color appears is because light has to traverse the atmosphere of the earth three times—once on coming from the sun to the earth, once when reflected to the moon, and again on being reflected back to us. Our atmosphere possesses the peculiar property of absorbing the blue rays of this white light and allowing only the red and orange to go through, thus causing the appearance of copper color by the triple absorption.

An odd thing connected with this phenomenon, though having nothing to do with it, is this: That part of the moon which appears bright to us corresponds to the portion of the earth appearing dark to the moon.

Of course it is well known that the moon gives out no light whatever itself, the moonshine being merely the light of the sun on the moon reflected to us. The same applies with the earth in its shine on the moon, save that we do give out glows, no doubt, around great cities at night, on account of the enormous number of lights. One thing, however, in which moonshine excels the earth shine is its constant character. Where the earth possesses varying clouds the old moon never has any at all.—St. Louis Republic.

Stone Cake.

In very unusual seasons the people of Rajputan, in India, are deprived of seeds and succulent roots of grasses. Under these very adverse conditions the barks of trees and even ground up rocks are resorted to principally to give bulk to the scanty meal and thereby to stay the pangs of hunger for a longer time. A soft stone found on the Bikanir-Marwar border of Jaipura is largely used in that part of the country to give bulk to the meager meal. This stone is friable and easily ground into fine powder. It contains an oleaginous substance which has some nutritive qualities, and the people have found that when finely ground and used in proportions of about one-fourth to three-fourths of flour it does not impair digestion for a considerable time.

Reading the Thumb.

The nail phalanx of the thumb is the index of a person's will power. The other phalanx shows the amount and quality of his judgment, reason, logic. To be properly balanced both phalanxes should be of equal length. If the will phalanx is a trifle shorter than the other the equipoise is still maintained. But if either phalanx is considerably larger than the other one's nature is made up of conflicting elements. There is either too much will with too little judgment to curb it or too little determination to give effect to the dictates of reason.

Wherein They Differed.

Dr. Emily Blackwell, one of the pioneers of her sex in medicine, heard a young physician deliver a fierce diatribe against opening the doors of the profession to women. When he ceased she asked:

"Will you please tell me one reason why they should not practice medicine?"

"Certainly, madam. They haven't the muscle, the brawn, the physical strength."

"I see, sir. Your conception of a lekroom is a slaughter house. Mine is not."

In the Name of the Law.

A mayor in Paris finished a marriage ceremony recently with the words "You are united." The wedding party had just left when he remembered that he had omitted part of the formula and that consequently the marriage was invalid. He promptly opened the window and shouted after them, "I say, you know it is in the name of the law that you are united."

Bright Officer.

"Did you get his number?" murmured the man who had been run over by the auto, to the policeman.

"No."

"Well, what kind of a looking car was it?"

"I don't know. I was trying to get his number."—Life.

Watch Papers.

When thick watches with removable cases were carried it was the custom for watchmakers whenever they cleaned a watch to place in the bottom of the loose case an engraved label with their names and addresses, on which they would write the date of the repair. Frequently these labels were elaborately engraved. Sometimes they contained maxims or verses around the outside. This habit gave rise to the fashion of placing in the cases verses and devices, tokens of friendship or love, sometimes written on paper, but more frequently painted or worked on satin. All these were designated as watch papers irrespective of the material of which they were composed.—Exchange.
